

HAMILTON ROBINSON CAPITAL PARTNERS

WealthManagement.com just published its annual Compensation Survey 2015. Advisors in the Northeast came in with the highest earnings (be careful of what you measure - they also rank in the 10 worst places to make a living when comparing average salary, cost of living, employment rate and workplace conditions). Advisors whose business mix leans more towards fees make almost twice as much as those who still lean heavily towards commissions. And you'll be happy to know that by the time you have 20 years of experience, you can expect to take home almost twice as much as a doctor with a similar level of experience.

We would welcome the opportunity to help increase your earnings. We are actively looking for opportunities in the test, measurement and leak detection sectors. More specifically, we are looking for North American companies offering test, measurement and leak detection technologies to industrial markets such as automotive, medical, packaging, pharmaceuticals, food and beverage, electronics and semiconductors, HVAC and aerospace. Companies with up to $5 million EBITDA where ownership/management may be in transition or looking to retire and could greatly benefit from our expertise in these sectors.

Give me a call or email if any companies in your portfolio fit our needs. Let's see if we can do some business that will help keep your earnings at the top of the region you work in!
